Cops stunned by bloodsoaked builder's bizarre tale

I SHOT MY DAD DEAD... BECAUSE HE TURNED INTO A ROBOT!

FULL STORY

By ABBEY HAY

A MAN blasted his dad to bits with a shotgun and then hacked apart what was left - after becoming convinced his father was in fact a KILLER ROBOT!

Builder Shawn Hays (above) posted messages on Facebook telling pals his dad had been abducted and replaced with a droid that looked exactly like him.

Hays told police "It's a robot that looks like a human...laying over there. I had to shoot at it to destroy it."

Apart from that, he was a smashing son!

Two arrests after Xmas pub shooting

A MAN and a woman have been arrested in connection with the murder of a 26-year-old who was shot at a Wirral pub on Christmas Eve.

Beautician Elle Edwards died after being shot in the head at the Lighthouse in Wallasey Village.

Police said a 30-year-old man has been arrested in Tranmere on suspicion of murder and attempted murder.

A 19-year-old woman from Rock Ferry has been arrested on suspicion of conspiracy to murder, they added.

Both suspects have been taken into custody and will be questioned by detectives.

Four others who were at the pub were also injured.

Tributes have been laid at the scene, including a note signed "mum and dad" which read: "To my beautiful Elle, you are the light of my life, you will never be gone."

Taiwan boosts military effort

TAIWAN will extend mandatory military service from four months to one year, President Tsai Ing-wen has said.

The decision comes amid growing tensions with China, which claims the self-ruled island as its territory.

Speaking at a press conference, President Tsai announced new plans to bolster Taiwan's defence in the event of an attack from Beijing.

"Peace will not drop from the sky... Taiwan is on the frontline of authoritarian expansion," she said.

Oh look... it's snowed!

DOZENS PERISH IN YANK DEATH BLIZZARD

ALMOST 60 people have died in death blizzards that have swept across the United States.

At least 28 people have perished in western New York State alone, most of them in the city of Buffalo, as a monster winter storm continues to batter North America.

A state official said some people had been trapped in cars for more than two days during what was "probably" the worst storm of their lifetime.

Up to nine more inches (23cm) of snow are expected in parts of the state, meteorologists warn.

And metmen believe the hell blizzards may cross the Atlantic and hit the UK in a few days' time.

The storm stretching from Canada to the Mexican border has killed 56 people. It's thought that dozens more bodies will be found once the huge drifts melt.

US President Joe Biden approved an emergency declaration allowing federal support for New York State.

"My heart is with those who lost loved ones this holiday weekend," he tweeted. Mark Poloncarz, the executive for Erie County where Buffalo is located, said: "We can see sort of the light at the end of the tunnel, but this is not the end yet."

"It's a generational storm," he said, warning that the county was yet to begin assessing the "full toll".

Citing the local medical examiner's office, Mr Poloncarz said many of the victims had died from heart problems while shovelling or blowing snow. Some were found dead in their vehicles.

Fatcat energy firms hoard £2BILLION direct debit payments

ENERGY firms have been accused of hoarding £2billion of their customers' hard-earned cash and raising direct debit repayments despite billpayers being in credit, it's been revealed.

Gas and electricity giants are accused of using their customers' money as a cheap source of credit despite millions facing hardship during the cost-of-living crisis.

One EDF customer, who was charged over £2,300 for energy she has not used, said she was still facing increased payments despite barely using her heating this winter. The company has since apologised and lowered her payments.

It comes as energy bills have doubled over the last year, rising from an average of £1,277 in October 2021 to £2,500 at present.

Christine Farnish, former board member of Ofgem, slammed the watchdog for allowing the practice to thrive.

Ms Farnish, who quit her role earlier this year, said: "Energy firms are allowed to put their hand into a customer's pocket and use advance customer payments to fund their own businesses."

"It's my guess that hard-pressed families have no idea that part of their energy direct debits are used to provide cheap financing for their supplier, rather than actually paying for energy consumed."

Separate analysis from Oxera found firms were holding hundreds of millions of pounds in customer credit.

Centrica, who owns British Gas, held £588million in money that their users have paid for in advance.

New ad to help reduce energy bills

A NEW TV advert will encourage people to save energy as the Government steps up its public information campaign.

The ad comes as part of the Government's £18 million It All Adds Up initiative, which was launched earlier this month to raise awareness of "straightforward" measures people can take to cut their bills over the colder months.

The 30-second advert offers suggestions about how to cut bills and save energy.

The advert will air on ITV, Channel 4, Channel 5, Sky and other channels.

It tells the public: "This is a 30-second ad. That's not long, but it is long enough to do something that could save you money on your energy bills."

The ad marks a break from Liz Truss's government, who blocked a similar ad over concerns about the "nanny state".

Energy Secretary Grant Shapps tweeted: "Keep an eye out for the #ItAllAddsUp campaign, which is full of ways to help save on your bills."

China opens up after three years

CHINA will scrap quarantine for travellers from January 8, officials said, marking the last major shift from its zero-COVID policy.

After almost three years of closed borders, it will reopen the country to those with work and study visas, or seeking to visit family.

But it comes as China struggles with the virus's ferocious spread in the wake of restrictions being lifted.

Reports say hospitals are overwhelmed and elderly people are dying.

The true toll is currently unknown because officials have stopped releasing COVID data.

Beijing had reported about 4,000 new COVID infections each day last week and few deaths.

BALKANS SLIDE TO WAR AGAIN

THE troubled Balkans are poised on the brink of war... again.

The Serbian army says it is at its "highest level of combat readiness" after weeks of escalating tensions between Serbia and Kosovo.

President Aleksandar Vucic says he will "take all measures to protect our people and preserve Serbia".

The sabre-rattling is louder than ever and follows some media claims in Serbia that Pristina is preparing "an attack" on ethnic Serb areas in north Kosovo.

The government in Pristina has made no comment about the allegations. But it has accused Mr Vucic of playing "games" to stir up trouble.

Kosovo, which has an overwhelmingly ethnic Albanian majority, broke away from Serbia after a war in 1998-99. Serbia does not recognise Kosovo as an independent state, nor do Serbs who live there.

Belgrade accuses Kosovo of plotting "terrorism against Serbs" in areas where some 50,000 ethnic Serbs live.

In return, Pristina says Belgrade is behind "paramilitary formations" that set up roadblocks in majority Serb areas of north Kosovo on 10 December.

The European Union has been attempting to mediate. The 27-member bloc is calling for "maximum restraint and immediate action" and for the leaders of Serbia and Kosovo to "personally contribute to a political solution".

JENNIFER ANISTON: WHY MOVIE BOSSES BANNED MY KINKIEST SEX SCENE

DODGY:
Aniston's character gropes a man in a coma

JENNIFER Aniston has revealed a sex scene was CUT from one of her movies because film bosses reckoned it was too controversial.

In the 2011 film Horrible Bosses and its 2014 sequel Horrible Bosses 2 Aniston takes on the role of Julia Harris, but the star explained one scene involved her character crossing a line.

By GRACE HOOPER
news@sundaysport.co.uk

Julia sexually harasses colleague Dale at work, but the deleted scene saw her taking things to a whole new level.

Exploit

Aniston explained that her character was supposed to share a sex scene with Day's, only it 'was kind of not mutual' because he was literally unconscious.

She struggled to find the words to describe the scene, saying: "I exploit him while he is in a coma."

"So it was a sex scene that was sort of... they removed it. But I bet it's in the DVD extras!"

Aniston went on to describe the scene as a 'terrifying thing to have to shoot' because she wasn't able to work off her co-star.

"You usually have someone there to support you but he's just lying there in a coma... and I'm like front ways, this ways, that way... all by myself," she said.

In spite of Aniston's struggles during that particular scene, she said she 'couldn't wait' to come back to the character.

"I love it," she said. Aniston said she was 'excited' to return to Julia's outrageous personality because "you can go far with her and it's all fair game".

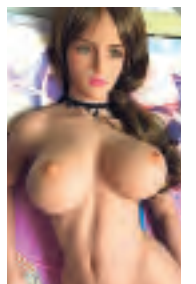

SEX DOLL BAN JOY

SOUTH Korean officials have lifted an import ban on adult-sized sex dolls and sex arses.

The decision comes after years of debate over whether the government was interfering in people's private lives.

The revised guidelines allow adult-shaped dolls through customs, but child-like dolls resembling minors are still prohibited, the Korea Customs Service said.

Sex dolls are not illegal in South Korea. However, thousands of them have been seized in customs since 2018.

Refund-snob man stole £1 off Starbucks

A MAN was nicked after robbing a Starbucks coffee shop when the store refused to refund his missus £1.

Richard Engle, 61 (above), of Harrah in Oklahoma, had gone to Starbucks in Edmond with his wife.

The wife asked staff for a refund on a drink she had purchased for $1.25 (about £1), but was denied and told to call head office.

Her hubby was also then denied a refund on his wife's behalf, but when an employee's back was turned, he took a dollar from the tip jar on the counter.

As he walked out, he was followed by an employee, who took a photo of the licence plate on Engle's car.

As the employee was taking the picture, Engle backed his car into the employee "a few times", police said.

Engle was tracked down at his home and taken into custody.

He faces charges of robbery and assault.

I SPY

LAURA HADDOCK (MAX MELADZE)

BOOBS!

KATHERINE KING SO (SARAH OKONGO)

By FIONA GREEN news@sundaysport.co.uk

OK, let's face it, most of what's on Netflix is utter shite.

Yes, there are some triumphs, like Breaking Bad, Queen's Gambit and The Crown.

And there are shows that have got a lot of press – the one with the ginger bloke and his missus.

But, on the whole, the streaming service is an online version of Blockbuster video – a few cracking hits but rack after rack of B-movie bollocks.

Recently, the streaming giant released their top spy drama series The Recruit.

It's not brilliant, but if you need something to watch, it'll fill a few hours.

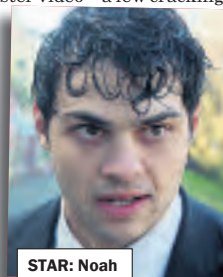

The series follows Owen (played by Noah Centineo), who, fresh from graduating from Georgetown University, is recruited to work for the CIA – not as a spy, but as a lawyer.

Mundane

His at-first mundane job is quickly thrown for a loop when he stumbles upon an international conspiracy involving the Russian mafia that may unleash a mountain of dangerous Yank government secrets.

In the meantime, Owen finds himself forming a pretty uneasy alliance with Max Meladze (Laura Haddock) an asset currently serving time in jail in Phoenix, Arizona, who wishes to be exonerated.

The conspiracy plot continues to grow and not only puts Owen in danger but also his loved ones.

It's no James Bond and, like anything that contains American twentysomethings, it can be a bit annoying.

But there's enough death and gore to make it watchable and, if you're into killer birds you'll like the look of Brit babe Laura.

Unfortunately, we do not get to see Laura's boobs in the show – so here they are for you.

And as a bonus, here's Katherine King So topless – she has a bit part as a congressional aide.

Jamie: Give skint kids free dinners

FAT tongued Mockney Jamie Oliver has warned that "chaos ensues" from parents worrying about feeding their children as he called on the Government to extend free school meals to every child whose parents are on Universal Credit.

Currently households in England receiving Universal Credit must earn below £7,400 a year before benefits and after tax to qualify for free school meals.

According to the Food Foundation, it is estimated that 800,000 children in England are living in poverty but do not qualify.

It comes as Westminster Council announced that all children attending state-funded primary schools in the borough will be eligible for free school meals.

Oliver said he was "proud" of the council's new policy.

"Every school, all 32,000 of them, could be just like this," he said.

"This is ours to celebrate. So, of course, I'm proud of what they're doing here. And when you see it working... you do realise it's not rocket science."

The earring was initially believed to be medieval but closer examination by an expert revealed it was Roman.

It has been declared treasure and will be lent to a Diss Museum exhibition.

She captioned the video with a simple rose emoji. Some fans are worried that the latest videos are fresh evidence she's gone bonkers again.

TRUUBLING:
Shawn Hays
killed 'robot'
father

A MAN blasted his dad to bits with a shotgun and then hacked apart what was left – after becoming convinced he was a killer ROBOT!

The bizarre tale unfolded after cops were called to a house belonging to builder Shawn Hays.

Police say they got a call from someone who said Hays told them that his father was turned into a robot, so Hays shot and mutilated him.

The call came after Facebook accounts linked to Hays detailed a variety of alarming and troubling thoughts.

In one post, written only a week before the shooting, Hays declared distrust in his father writing that he believed someone had kidnapped or murdered his dad and replaced him with "a robot that looks like my dad."

When police arrived at the home on the outskirts of Mitchell, Indiana, they saw Hays trying to back out of the driveway.

When they asked about his father, cops say Hays told them that it wasn't his father, but was instead a robot that looked like his father.

Police say he "got combative" when they asked him to get out of the truck.

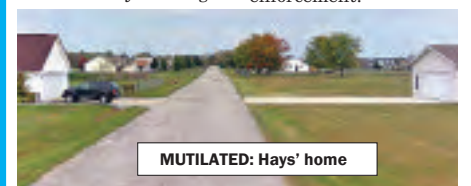

During the argument, Hays told them "It's a robot that looks like a human... laying over there. I had to shoot at it to destroy it."

After arresting Hays, officers found his father in front of the house, dead from gunshot wounds to his head and chest.

His body was also mutilated and partially dismembered.

When interviewed Hays admitted to shooting, mutilating, and partially dismembering the "robot", who looked like his father.

He is charged with murder, abuse of a corpse, criminal recklessness with a deadly weapon, and resisting law enforcement.

Joseph Centanni, 75, of Mountainside, New Jersey, was charged in a 42-count indictment that includes 23 counts of second-degree sexual assault and 19 counts of fourth-degree sexual contact.

The creepy landlord allegedly bribed men and women ages 22 to 61 to engage in sexual favours between 2013 and 2020.

"The defendant allegedly solicited the sex acts from his victims as a quid pro quo, agreeing to offer them rent reductions, or a delay in eviction," the statement said.

"He also purportedly threatened tenants who hesitated or refused his advances with eviction or other retaliatory measures."

Centanni was arrested in June 2021 and paid a massive £3.7m to resolve a different lawsuit.

By BRAD CHADWICK news@sundaysport.co.uk

A HUSBAND was arrested for chopping up his wife because she told him off about his COMIC collection and wouldn't let him open a comic book shop.

Stephen Capaldi is accused of murder in the third degree according to the Bucks County District Attorney's Office in Pennsylvania.

The investigation began in October after Elizabeth Capaldi, 55, was reported missing by her daughter.

The victim, according to police, was last seen alive by her husband on Oct. 10.

Stephen Capaldi reportedly confessed to murdering his wife in an interview with detectives.

Affair

The husband allegedly said he suffocated his wife with a pillow while she was sleeping.

A search of the man's phone reportedly found confirmation that he was in a six-month-long "sexual affair" with another woman.

Reports also indicate internet searches, such as, "how to get away with murder," "how to control your dark impulses," "how to disappear and never be found," and more.

According to reports, the man purchased and sold thousands of dollars' of comic books. Detectives discovered the couple has argued about the "thousands" of comics in the cellar.

A report indicates an alleged motive: "The fact that he had found someone (his mistress) that he loved and who supported his dream of opening a comic book store with his brother while his wife did not."

The man reportedly agreed to lead cops to his wife's body.

Capaldi, 57, stands accused of one count each of murder in the third degree, possessing an instrument of crime, tampering with or fabricating physical evidence, and further obstructing the administration of law or other governmental function and abuse of a corpse.

A COUPLE'S romantic Christmas getaway was ruined when a woman twatted her husband after finding naked snaps on his phone.

Paula Barbour, 55, was arrested for attacking her husband at the airport after finding naked pictures on his phone as they arrived on holiday.

Police confirmed that Paula and her husband had flown to South Carolina for a holiday, but beat her husband up after finding 'indecent photos' on his phone which led to an argument, at Charleston Airport.

CCTV footage showed Barbour throwing her husband's phone, kicking him and attempting to hit his face.

Charged with one count of third-degree domestic violence she will now appear in court in February.

LILY has launched her very own sex toy – and it seems to be going down a treat with shoppers. Selling for an eye-watering £89.99 on Lovehoney, the vibrator is the subject of wild praise from customers – with some claiming it is life changing.

Having previously championed the Womanizer brand of vibrators, Lily has collaborated with the company to create her own version of the "suction vibrator".

The Liberty is billed as a travel-ready clitoral stimulator combining sweet suction with soft pressure waves. Womanizer's patented Pleasure Air Technology pulses with 6 intensity levels of touchless stimulation – using a sucker to really ramp up the tingles.

LIGHTER FLUID ATTACK: Tuhonsty Smith

She thought he'd poisoned her chicken wings

A WOMAN allegedly set her sleeping husband on fire after believing he had tried to poison her with chicken wings.

Henry Williams woke up with his hair on fire, prompting him to frantically try to extinguish the flames with his hands.

He gathered up his three-month-old daughter and fled the home he shares with his wife, Tuhonsty Marie Smith, in Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

Abuse

Cops believe Smith set him on fire and they have charged her with arson of a building, first-degree recklessly endangering safety and mayhem, and domestic abuse assessments.

Williams, who suffered second and third-degree burns, told police his wife's behaviour had changed in recent months.

He said he told her he was ending their marriage a few days prior to the fiery incident, prompting even more erratic behaviour from her.

According to a criminal complaint, Smith told authorities that she believed her husband poisoned chicken wings she ate hours prior to the fire.

Smith allegedly admitted to filling a cup full of lighter fluid and pouring it on her husband's head.

Then she allegedly used a lighter to start the fire.

Smith has been ordered to undergo a competency evaluation following her first court appearance.

The couple's property owner and friend, Denise Wilson, said: "The house is just a thing and that's why you have insurance, but as long as he's going to be okay that's my main concern."

She said Williams faces a "long road to recovery with his burns but ultimately he'll be okay".

Aussies overrun by mice and snakes

IT'S about to get even worse for Australia, which is in the grip of a Biblical plague of mice.

Hordes of cannibalistic, fire-starting mice have taken over almost half of the country from Brisbane to Melbourne.

But the worst is yet to come, as experts warn a plague of SNAKES is sure to follow.

"After the mice, the snakes will follow," said Gerard Dallow, from Micropest in Sydney.

Dallow explained that the glut of mice will cause snakes to breed faster and soon the whole of Australia will be a mass of deadly serpents.

Millions of mice have caused severe crop damage and have even started eating each other as food sources run out.

COPS are on the trail of a pervert nicknamed the 'Bum Groper of the Bronx'.

The sicko groped the backsides of two women and exposed himself to one of them, according to police, who released a photo (below) of the suspect.

The man first struck inside a residential building on East 147th Street and Southern Boulevard when he approached a 17-year-old female from behind and touched her buttocks, cops said.

When the teenager confronted the assailant, he ran off.

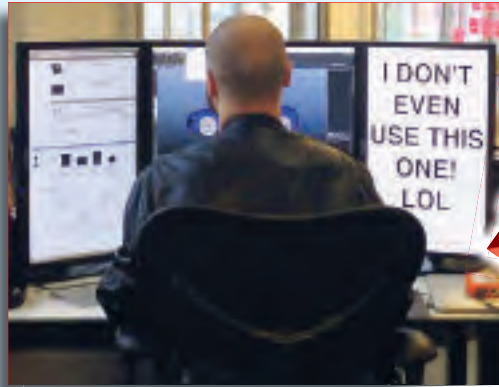

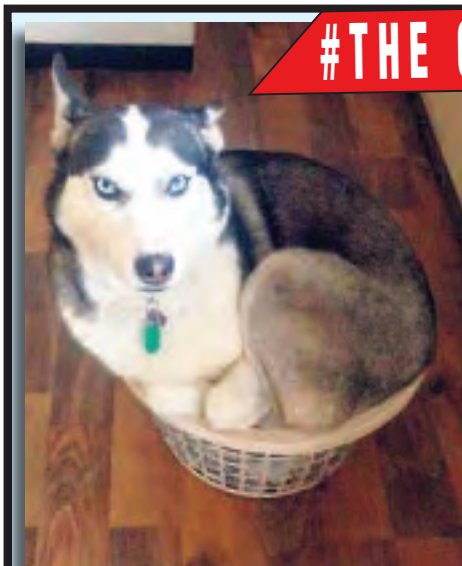

Less than an hour later, the same creep followed a woman into an elevator in a residential building on Fox Street and Leggett Avenue, authorities said.

The suspect exposed his penis and grabbed the woman's buttocks.

The victim left the elevator and the suspect fled.

Man who beat Death Row shot dead at funeral

A WRONGLY convicted man who spent 25 years on Death Row was fatally shot while attending a funeral, less than two years after being exonerated of his crimes.

Father-of-six, Christopher Williams was shot in the head while driving as part of a funeral procession for Tyree Little in North Philadelphia.

Williams spent 25 years on Death Row before being exonerated of four murders and released in 2021.

He was shot once in the head as he stepped out of his car. He was rushed to hospital, where he was pronounced dead less than half an hour later.

Williams, 62, had also been acquitted of two more murders – all involving the same jailhouse snitch.

He had been convicted of the 1989 murders on the basis of false testimony and suppressed evidence.

NUDE GYMNASTICS

I HAVE a thing for older men – I love pulling a randy silver fox!

I'm 26 and I like them about 20 to 30 years older than me... but they have to be in good physical condition.

I much prefer Hugh Grant now he's older and in his 60s. And Daniel Day Lewis is hot at 65. I wouldn't say no to Paul Hollywood, either.

The oldest guy I've slept with is 52. Which is actually my Dad's age!

I wouldn't say I have a fetish as such, but maybe I have! Younger guys just don't do it for me.

Baby faces... yuk!

I think it's because with an older man there's that confidence, and you know they've been around and they know how to please a woman in bed.

But if they don't know what they're doing in bed at 50 then they will never know and you need to kick 'em to the kerb!

Life's too short to put up with crap sex!

Cops identify severed head after 4 years

A SEVERED head found on the side of a busy road has been identified after FOUR YEARS!

The bonce was found in a plastic bag next to a road through a swamp in Cameron Parish, Louisiana, in 2018.

The Cameron Parish Sheriff's Department said a recent tip had led investigators to confirm that the remains belonged to Sally Ann Hines, 58, using dental records.

The San Antonio, Texas, woman was last seen leaving her home on December 14, 2017.

Hines (above) had a medical condition and had reportedly left her home barefoot without her purse, phone, car or medication on the day she disappeared.

Cops believe she was murdered somewhere else and dumped in the marsh. Her body has not been found.

Cameron Parish Sheriff Ron Johnson said: "There are lots of alligators about and they believe if they dump a body here, the alligators will eat it."

Fact me!

THERE are over 200 corpses of climbers and sherpas on Mount Everest

Terror flight as bat goes crazy in cabin

AN Air India flight to New York City had to be rerouted back to New Delhi 30 minutes after takeoff when a crazed bat started flying around the cabin to the shock and horror of passengers.

"On arrival, it was learnt that crew members saw a bat inside the cabin," the Directorate General of Civil Aviation (DGCA) officials said.

"Wildlife staff were called to catch and take away the bat. The aircraft landed safely and later it was declared Aircraft on Grounded (AoG)."

The plane underwent a complete fumigation and the bat's carcass was retrieved from the business class cabin.

"The probable reason/ cause may be loading vehicles like those for catering," an Air India official said.

"All the time rats/bats come from their vehicle."

RANDY SCHOOL MISS SENT PICS OF HER FANNY TO LAD

PRISON ESCAPE: Steinman performed sex act on student

Has Buffy got a bald beaver?

SARAH Michelle Gellar slipped into a pink Barbie one-piece swimsuit, flaunting her incredible figure as she soaked up the sun during a tropical holiday.

The petite 45-year-old Buffy the Vampire Slayer star captioned her picture: 'I'm a Barbie girl, in a Santa world #barbies dreamvacation.'

But eagle-eyed fans spotted the curves of her gorgeous SLOT through the swimsuit.

One commented: "Shaven. Fully shaven."

A FORMER high school band director accused of having a sexual relationship with a student has escaped jail.

Ashlee Steinman, 29, allegedly sucked the 18-year-old's hard cock until he erupted gushes of semen down the pretty teacher's throat.

Steinman is also alleged to have sent the student pictures of her held-open fanny, described in court documents as "dripping with juice", and another pic of herself fingering her own anus.

Illegal

Despite the student being the age of consent, under Alabama law it is illegal for a teacher to have a sexual relationship with an 18-year-old student.

Chilton County High School band director Steinman was initially charged with the crimes of school employee engaging in a sex act with a student and using her official position to gain access to the student and carry out the illegal relationship.

The charge of an employee engaging in a sex act with a student carries a maximum sentence of 20 years. But Steinman pleaded guilty to one count of a school employee distributing obscene matter to a student, which is a less serious offence.

Under the plea agreement, Steinman received a one-year suspended sentence with two years of probation.

She is to have no contact with the male victim in Clanton, Alabama.

Records also show that Steinman was ordered to immediately sign termination papers with the Chilton County school system, as well as surrender her teaching certificate and attend 10 hours of counselling with mental health facility.

ALWAYS HOME OF TOPLESS BABES

JUICY Gemma Massey must be the perfect woman... Big boobs, mad for HOT SEX, and she loves giving BLOWJOBS! The 32G babe, from Tamworth in Staffs, said: "I absolutely love taking my fella by surprise and waking him up with a blowjob. "I'm quite bossy and usually take control in the bedroom. "I absolutely love sex - I'm a bit of a nympho, and I'm not afraid to show it, either! "I get so turned on when his huge cock starts to go hard until it's fully erect and ready to service me. "Using lots of saliva, I run my tongue all up and down the shaft, then pay the head plenty of attention, as well as his balls. "Once I hear him moaning, I climb on top and begin to ride him. "I know he loves it when my big boobs are bouncing in his face."

#HOT'N'HORNY

JUSTIN DUNN'S ROOM 101

WHAT'S ANNOYING HIM THIS WEEK?

Christmas? It was miserable

DOESN'T really matter if you're into Christmas or not. But by any standard, mine was dreadful.

I woke up for a wee, as ever. It was just before 9am, which wasn't too bad.

I put my foot down on the carpet and it lands in a cold sluice of water-logged carpet. And it really is cold.

I look at the radiator. Feel the pipes. They're both dry. Smashing.

So the water must be coming up from underneath us.

Which is handy on any day, never mind Christmas Day, especially as "underneath" us is concrete and earth.

Fine. Fk it. Heating's going up.

I munch of a packet of Fruit Salad-flavoured Chewits.

We're both fed up. We're both ill. We'd probably both prefer to just go back to bed again, but neither of us wants to say it.

A flick through the channels in vain hope of saving the day from utter disaster finds The Batman on Sky – it's already been on for weeks – and, er, that's it, new-blockbuster wise.

We look at each other with the look that says "no way" when I appear to contemplate ducking into the non-HD world of terrible movies, shopping channels and God TV.

A few months back I watched the new Top Gun at the cinema and thought it was brilliant.

So we went for the last possible

I half stagger into the kitchen – I'm on week three of "super cold" and am still struggling to move, although I have started keeping food down.

She's up. But she's watching Game of Thrones again so, I grab a coffee, and return to bed, this time missing the wet patch.

The phone is next to me so I pick it up and see what the fuss is all about.

Ah.

A young woman has been shot to death in a pub about a five minutes' taxi ride from here.

This is not a pub where people get shot – at all.

Dead

This is a pub I used to visit with my parents when I was a kid.

There was an outside bit you can sit at with your pop and crisps and occasional wander over to try to feed the horses.

It was where I had my 18th birthday celebrations, or at least was meant to if any of my mates had actually turned up.

And still, there's a girl shot dead in the car park of the pub where I used to feed the horses.

Sluggishly, as I have no other mode right now, I try to spend the day catching up with anything new.

Dinner time!

Except my helpful sub-Saharan stomach has denied it is very much not dinnertime.

She eats turkey and trimmings as chance of the night and flicked on to Paramount+ (free with Sky Cinema package, kids!).

And we watched it again, only this time in the living room, and it was absolutely crap.

Exactly the same story as the first time. It was so rubbish we ended up turning it off and went to bed.

She got tucked up while went I round turning the lights off.

Then, now in the pitch black, I navigated my way up my side of the bed to get in.

But not before sinking my foot in the glacier lake on the carpet first.

Veteran cop had meth lab in his house

A COP was busted for running a METH LAB in his house.

Christopher Walls, 50, was arrested after his co-workers were called to his home because of a domestic disturbance.

After someone in the house tipped them off about Walls' Breaking Bad-style antics, cops found the ingredients and equipment for making meth in the basement and a shed.

Walls (above) had books related to making meth, explosives and poison.

Officers also found a stash of six guns, high-capacity magazines and ammo in an unsecured safe that could have been accessed by a child living in the house.

Walls, a 19-year veteran of the Long Branch, New Jersey, police department, is facing six charges related to the meth production as well as a second degree child endangerment charge and firearm possession during a controlled-dangerous substance offence.

Fuel 'hoarder' set on fire after car flips and explodes

A WOMAN who was hoarding petrol tried to flee police in a stolen car but crashed and was set on fire.

A cop tried to pull over a 2007 Pontiac G6 after he ran the plates and found it was stolen.

Jessica Patterson, 28, tried to outrun the officer but lost control of the car and flipped it over.

"The vehicle immediately caught fire and multiple explosions were heard inside the vehicle," officials wrote.

Patterson emerged from the car on fire and the cop pushed her to the ground to extinguish the flames in Greenville, South Carolina.

The suspect was "hoarding" containers of fuel in the boot, which started the fire.

Yanks have been panic buying petrol after a vital pipeline was hacked.

WWE STAR LINKED TO HARD CORE PORN BABE...

FANCY A GRAPPLE?

NEW GIRL IN THE RING: Matt and Misha

WHAT a life being a WWE star must be...

Grappler Matt Riddle has been linked to not one but TWO porn stars.

After the 36-year-old split from his wife of 11 years, Lisa, earlier this year, the hunk was linked to 34D porn stunna Jordan Maxx.

But at an event last week, he was spotted swapping spit with tattooed Misha Montana.

Matt's currently banned from WWE telly shows after failing a drug test.

But he's still hot news on

By NEIL GOODWIN
neil@sundaysport.co.uk

the wrestling world, not least because of his hot new squeeze.

And the saga's still bubbling because when a grapple fan made a joke about Matt bonking Misha, Jordan Maxx jumped in on social media.

Hurtful

The beauty stormed: "Does it make you feel better about yourself to kick people when they're down?"

"Try to imagine for one second, the man you've spent the last 6 months with, who said 'I love you' for the first time 2 months ago, is all of a sudden making out with someone else WHO IS IN YOUR INDUSTRY."

"And then, rather than keeping plans for Christmas and NYE, he's going to rehab? Do you have any idea how confusing and hurtful that is?"

According to sources, Matt's gone into rehab after failing the drugs test.

An insider asid: "That's probably the safest place for him with all these furious women wanting to whoop his ass!"

THE WORLD FAMOUS AGONY Page

Dear Bexi,

I WENT on a lads' weekend to Blackpool and got chatting to a brunette. I thought I was well in but she said her hubby was meeting her later. I must have chatted up 20 girls and not got a sniff and I was about to give up hope when I bumped into this lovely little blonde tease. She was all smiles, had a sexy Scottish accent and her flimsy blouse hung off her massive tits. I asked her back to the B&B I was at and as soon as we walked through the door she was on her knees in front of me. She unzipped my pants and teased the head of my cock with the tip of her tongue. I moaned with pleasure as she softly massaged my balls and took me deeper in her mouth. For the next 10 minutes she gave me the best blowjob I'd ever had. But I made the mistake of giving her my mobile number and now she's started calling me. I'm sure my wife is going to get suspicious. What should I do?

JK, Manchester

Bexi says...

CHANGE your phone, you idiot! And be nmore careful next time.

Dear Bexi,

MY girlfriend's mum has been coming on to me a lot lately. I resisted her efforts until a couple of weeks ago. I saw her in the pub and after a few drinks she whispered in my ear: "I want to suck your cock." As you can imagine I found this a turn-on and we went to my place. She didn't take long to get her chops around my throbbing sausage. Just as I was about to come I took off her blouse and spunked on her 36DDs. She then took off her soaking knickers and I licked her out. She was begging me to do her doggy-style and I gave her a good seeing-to on the couch. She was so good in bed that I finished with her daughter, but her mum went mad at me as her daughter is vowing never to speak to her again. I realise I made a big mistake and want my ex back. What should I do?

TS, Glasgow

Bexi says...

YOU should forget about getting back with this girl. You committed the ultimate betrayal!

Should I leave girlfriend for sex with her bessie?

Dear Bexi,

MY girlfriend's best mate is really fit and has a reputation for putting it about.

She's 23, blonde, with a lovely body and massive tits.

I was in the pub with her a couple of weeks ago when my girlfriend was away at her mother's.

She came right out with it and asked if I fancied shagging her a couple of times a week.

I thought she was winding me up and was setting a trap, but she assured me that it would be our secret, so we went back to her place.

She was insatiable and loved sucking my cock and bringing me off between her tits. I returned the favour, licking her soft pink fanny lips and hard little clit until she came wetly.

We now meet twice a week. She loves tying me up and riding me until I spunk up her.

The problem is I want her to move in with me, but she said it's just a bit of fun to her.

I'm now thinking of finishing with my girlfriend in the hope that this will convince her friend that I'm serious about her.

Should I?

TF, Birmingham

Bexi says...

EVEN if you do, I doubt it will make any difference. This girl has made it clear that she only wants a bit of fun.

When things get serious, that spark can go.

AGONY IS BROUGHT TO YOU IN ASSOCIATION

WELCOME to the World famous Sport Agony page! No other newspaper's agony aunts can offer the level of advice – or experience – than our own Agony Angels! This week BEXIE WILLIAMS has been reading through your letters. And here's her advice for you...

Am I getting a bargain banging babes for dosh?

Dear Bexi,

AT the end of a boozy night at my local, me and a couple of pals tried it on with the two fit babes behind the bar.

They're both blonde, in their early 20s with great bodies.

We got chatting and they told us that they'd give us a blowjob for a tenner and we could shag them for 20 sheets.

So me, my mates and the landlord went to the pool room. The girls both stripped off and I got my knob out and watched as one sucked me off and the other was taken from behind while giving a blowjob and a handjob to the other two guys.

It was like something out of bongo film – and here it was happening to me!

I was just about to shoot my load when the bird blowing me got off her knees and bent over the pool table and I sent my hot love-juice deep into her slippery hole. I then went over to her mate and I had her in both holes.

At the end of the night the girls had made about £100 each off all of us and I invited them round to my place the following day.

Fat lass wants to shag me!

Dear Bexi,

SOMEONE sent me a mystery card last week. I thought it was a girl at work who posted it, as she's always talking about fking me. She's got big tits and looks like she'd be a right laugh in the bedroom.

When I asked her she laughed and said no, it was a girl from accounts – who is almost 17 stone!

She's really not my cup of tea, but I started to think, any port in a storm and all that. And pressing the flesh has got to beat wanking, right?

Anyway, I ended up spunking all over this fat bird's tits in the office the other night after a great spot of motorboating to warm her up.

I haven't fked her yet but she gives great oral.

Should I do it?

GW, South Wales

Bexi says...

I THINK you already know the answer.

Now you'd best get cracking!

HAVE A SEX PROBLEM?

email: agony@sundaysport.co.uk

Mail: Agony, Sunday Sport, 860 Chester Rd, Stretford, Manchester M32 0QJ

Dear Bexi,

I WORK as a porter in a high-class store in the posh part of London. I'm just a straight, ordinary guy, aged 30, trying to get by and I don't do badly where women are concerned.

One day two gorgeous women – one Aussie and the other a Swede – came in and said they'd noticed me and thought how hunky I looked.

They said that one of the counter girls had told them where I hung out and they'd come along to get to know me better.

With that one of the girls bent over the counter and pulled her pants and tights down and told me to fk her!

I'm not one to pass up an opportunity like that when it's offered on a plate.

So, no problem. The other girl watched everything as I took the first girl from behind – slowly at first and then with great gusto before I shot my load deep inside her hot slit.

She was saying all sorts, in Swedish, while I shagged her.

They wore short dresses and after a few drinks they did a strip to reveal their black stockings and suspenders.

We went up to my room, which has a mirror on the ceiling, and I got out my phone and filmed them having a lesbo romp. They licked and sucked on each other's tits and then fingered and tongued each other's fannies.

It was an incredible display of lesbian lust which brought them both to full-on screaming orgasms.

Then, with my knob throbbing, I filmed as they both sucked me off. I then shagged them in a variety of positions.

At the end of the night they said they wanted £50 each for our romp.

I wasn't too happy shelling out that kind of dough with but the girls promised that from now on they will only charge £25 each for a shag.

I think this is really great value because I make them really work for their dosh.

What do you reckon?

SL, Newcastle

Bexi says...

YOU got a yourself a real bargain there, fella! But they seem keen girls, even keener on your money – are you sure they're not just taking you for a ride!

When I'd finished, and she'd almost brought the house down with her screams of delight, the Aussie got to work.

She'd been idly stroking her pussy lips and fiddling with her clit as I shafted the Swede and she said: "Now it's my turn."

She dropped to her knees and took my cock, still damp with Swedish fanny batter, into her mouth for a lingering blowjob.

When it was all over I was stunned, but they insisted they'd be back for more.

Now I do them in my morning break every Wednesday and Friday.

Sometimes I shag the Aussie and get a Swedish blowjob – and then sometimes it's the other way round.

They are loaded and want me to tag along on a skiing hol they've planned.

Should I go?

DP, Middlesex

Bexi says...

WHAT are you waiting for? Go and pack your ski gear now!

MISSY Love is now better known as Love Island babe Laura Anderson.

But here at Midweek Sport, we still remember the saucy photo shoot she did with Blackpool-based glamour pal Gemma Hiles.

Laura said at the time: "Gemma and I joked as we posed for these photos that it would be even more fun if a guy could join in – but only if he could keep up with us!"

The minx added: "I've never had a threesome, but if I did it would have to be with a guy and a girl – not two blokes."

"I think Gemma would be perfect, because her boobs are just totally amazing."

"Her nipples are so lickable and I could spend all day fondling her peachy bum!"

MIDWEEK
Sport
ALWAYS HOME
OF TOPLESS
BABES

CRACKING Caja just loves a woolly jumper!

The 34FF stunna, originally from Slovakia but now living in Cardiff, said: "Back home we all have woolly jumpers as the winter nights in the mountains are very cold."

"We even wear jumpers in bed in the winter and make the sex while wearing our jumpers."

"But they have to be good wool. Nylon or acrylic and you are asking for static and - BANG - electrical shock to the pussy. OUCH!"

"Now I am in Cardiff I also wear jumpers as the wind of Cardiff Bay at this kind of year can be cold."

"I go home and eat warm laverbread and Welsh cakes with lashings of Welsh butter. Yum."

MIDWEEK MASSIVE BOOBS

Britney
34G, from Prague

LIKE her pop princess namesake, Britney LOVES showing off her boobs.

And the beauty thinks that Britney Spears should be able to pose naked without other people often thinking she's gone bonkers in the nut.

Brit said: "I've long been a fan of Britney Spears, but when she puts out a new naked vid now, they all say she is troubled and mad.

"I have spent my whole career posing naked.

"Am I mad?! Don't answer that, please!"

WHERE REAL BABES SNAP THEMSELVES!

THIS is it...the only newspaper feature where REAL BABES show their boobs!

Self-shooting topless pics is a craze that's sweeping the country - but you don't need a swanky new smartphone to enjoy 'em - as we'll be printing the pick of the snaps EVERY week!

SEND US YOUR SELF-SHOTS!
selfshot@sundaysport.co.uk

SHOW ME THE HONEY!

WELCOME to the interactive Midweek Sport – where YOU get to choose the stunnas appearing on these pages!

That's right fellas, we publish sexy snaps of the babes you most want to see – TOPLESS or even NAKED.

Every Wednesday, Show Me The Honey features the cute curves of the glamour girls you're clamouring for.

This service – UNIQUE to British newspapers – is totally FREE!

All you have to do is drop us an email to request@sundaysport.co.uk telling us why you want to see your favourite girl, then sit back and let us do the rest.

SAMANTHA JESSUP

BARBER Simon Fuller is absolutely knackered after a busy two weeks of Christmas haircuts and wants a restful two days looking at glamour legend Samantha Jessup's 32C busters.

The 59-year-old, from Southport, said: "The lull after the holiday rush is so ruddy slow, so please show me a sexy pic of Sam to help."

HAYLEY FINCH

SUPERMARKET worker Freddie Carter reckons he needs some help to cope with all the Christmas and New Year sales – in the form of a topless legend Hayley Finch showing off her incredible 34F boobs.

He said: "I'm a south Londoner from Purley, too, so I always hope she might pop into the store at some point."

"I haven't seen her yet, though!"

Well, Freddie, in the meantime here's a topless photo of the lovely Hayley to brighten up your day and help keep your pecker up during the shopping madness. Enjoy!

LISA FORWARD

ENGINEER Bradley Brown can't stop staring at Lisa Forward's eye-popping 34C boobs.

The 55-year-old, from Grimsby, says glamour veteran Lisa's norks are his idea of a perfect pair – and he wouldn't change a thing.

Lisa, from Fulham, west London, looks sensational in this bare-boobed snap and Bradley has never been happier to see a topless photo.

He said: "She's a dream is Lisa – and those boobs are an absolute knockout."

REVIEW OF 2022: YOUNGSTERS TO WATCH

STARS OF 2023

WITH a host of major World Championships set to take place in 2023, here is our 10 young stars who are best placed to take their respective sports by storm.

FUNMI FADOJU (NETBALL)

Fast-rising Fadoju is at the forefront of a new wave of England netball stars.

Named as a reserve for the Commonwealth Games in the summer, Fadoju subsequently starred in series against Uganda and Australia, and will play an integral role in her country's 2023 World Cup bid.

RICHARD MANSELL (GOLF)

The 27-year-old Mansell enjoyed by far the best season of his career in 2022, missing just five cuts in 25 starts and qualifying for the season-ending DP World Tour Championship in Dubai for the first time, recording four top-10 finishes in the process.

REHAN AHMED (CRICKET)

The Leicestershire leg-spinner was fast-tracked into the Test squad for the winter tour of Pakistan at the age of just 18. He made a huge impact in the one Test he played, taking five wickets in the second innings at Lahore.

Equally adept with red and white ball, and with a County Championship ton already on his CV, Ahmed is well-placed to continue to make waves next summer.

By JACK FARLEY

MORGAN GANNON (RUGBY LEAGUE)

The 19-year-old Gannon has made a meteoric rise since making his Leeds Rhinos debut in 2021 and his progress is set to continue under coach Rohan Smith. Originally a back-rower, Gannon has been training at stand-off, hinting at even more of an impact in Super League in 2023.

MAYA LE TISSIER (FOOTBALL)

The 20-year-old defender joined Manchester United from Brighton in the summer and subsequently made her England debut in the 1-1 draw with Norway in Murcia in November. Le Tissier is set to be part of the Lionesses squad for next year's World Cup in Australia and New Zealand.

HENRY ARUNDELL (RUGBY UNION)

Arundell marked his international emergence by scoring a stunning solo try in the first Test against Australia in July. The London Irish wing sensation is recovering from a foot injury but is set to be central to the thinking of Steve Borthwick.

JACK DRAPER (TENNIS)

Draper has continued to progress since his stunning arrival in the big time in 2021, when he reached the quarter-finals at Queen's Club then took a set off Novak Djokovic at Wimbledon.

Currently a career-high 42, Draper also reached the NextGen semi-finals in October.

JOE O'CONNOR (SNOOKER)

O'Connor's first ranking final appearance at the Scottish Open in December may have ended in a crushing 9-2 defeat to Gary Wilson, but the Leicester 27-year-old earned gushing praise from Ronnie O'Sullivan and looks best placed among the sport's few under-30s to make an impression.

KEELY HODGKINSON (ATHLETICS)

After clinching a trio of high-profile silver medals including world and Olympic silvers behind the brilliant Athing Mu, the 20-year-old 800-metre star is looking to ascend to the top step of the podium in 2023, culminating in the World Championships in Budapest in August.

CAROLINE DUBOIS (BOXING)

Since turning professional in the wake of the Tokyo Olympics, Dubois – sister of heavyweight contender Daniel – has wasted no time, racking up four wins and already starting to call out Irish superstar Katie Taylor. The 21-year-old is set to accelerate further through 2023.

SPORTS REVIEW OF 2022: RUGBY UNION

It's all change for big names

BOOTED OUT:
Eddie Jones has been shown the door by England

RUGBY union was a sport scattered with tales of the unexpected in 2022.

England head coach Eddie Jones and his Wales counterpart Wayne Pivac lost their jobs 24 hours apart, Ireland claimed an historic Test series triumph against the All Blacks in New Zealand, while Gallagher Premiership clubs Wasps and Worcester went into administration.

And the year ended in a way that no Welsh supporter could realistically have imagined, with Warren Gatland returning as Wales boss.

Masterminded

Gatland's first stint in the role lasted 12 years, during which time Wales won four Six Nations titles, three Grand Slams, reached two World Cup semi-finals and were briefly ranked world rugby's number one team.

This time, Gatland has arrived on the back of Wales winning just three Tests from 12 starts between February and November.

While Pivac masterminded Wales' first victory over the world champion Springboks in South Africa, he also oversaw damaging home defeats against Italy and Georgia.

By BILL HARE

Jones, meanwhile, paid the price for a poor Autumn Nations Series campaign that saw England lose to Argentina and South Africa. They won just five games in 2022.

He led England to the World Cup final in Japan three years ago, three Six Nations titles and a Grand Slam in 2016, but the 62-year-old Australian's time in charge ended following a Rugby Football Union review of the autumn campaign.

Jones said: "I'm pleased with much that we have achieved as an England team and I look forward to watching the team's performance in the future."

"Many of the players and I will no doubt keep in touch, and I wish them all well in their future careers."

Steve Borthwick is the man charged with taking over the England reins.

While the World Cup is looming large on the horizon, he is looking for success closer to home.

He said: "Every game matters. Every single game you play for England matters."

"The one that's in my mind is at the start of that Six Nations."

"We will be using every minute we have to prepare this team as well as we can for the first game of that Six Nations in 47 days' time. Then when we've played that game, we'll focus on the next one, then the one after that and the one after that."

"We want to just keep getting better."

"We know the World Cup is not far away, but the focus is on the start of the Six Nations."

Borthwick is bringing a rugby league legend in Kevin Sinfield with him to be England's new defensive coach.

The chief added: "I'm delighted Kevin has joined us, that's the first step."

"In any of the best teams I have played in and coached, you have a team where the players work so hard for each other, it's never perfect, they cover for each other, help each other, celebrate with each other and lift each other up when they get knocked down, they're so tight."

"If there's a person that embodies that ethos, it's Kevin Sinfield."

"He's the type of person you really want in your environment."

The international year unquestionably belonged to Ireland, courtesy of toppling New Zealand in Wellington and Dunedin, then backing it up through autumn victories over South Africa and Australia.

Andy Farrell's team also rose to become world number one, while flanker Josh van der Flier was named men's world player of the year – the third Irishman to win that award after legends Keith Wood and Johnny Sexton.

Heading towards the 2023 World Cup, Ireland and Six Nations champions France are flying Europe's flag, having shown lots of consistency and quality under the wily direction of Farrell and Les Bleus boss Fabien Galthie.

As crowds returned following the coronavirus pandemic, a feelgood factor reappeared, although there was a sharp reminder of the sport's frailty when Wasps and Worcester went into administration, meaning automatic relegation and the Premiership dropping from 13 to 11 clubs.

Buyers

More than 160 people lost their jobs at Wasps, while Worcester's gates were also closed in the most concerning developments for English domestic rugby during the sport's professional era.

Administrators are in working tirelessly at both clubs speaking with potential buyers, while several players have found alternative employment since the bad news.

Worcester's England internationals Ollie Lawrence and Ted Hill are now with Bath, while Warriors' British and Irish Lions wing Duhan van der Merwe rejoined Edinburgh.

Wasps' Willis brothers – Jack and Tom – joined Toulouse and Bordeaux-Begles, respectively, with Josh Bassett headed to Harlequins, with Quins also the expected destination for Joe Launchbury following a playing stint in Japan.

Rugby also said farewell to the great Doddie Weir this year.

Weir, who was diagnosed with motor neurone disease in 2016, died at the age of 52.

The former Scotland international, who won 61 caps, used his profile to push for better research to be carried out into MND and appealed for improved care to be given to those afflicted by it.

Scotland head coach Gregor Townsend said: "His fight against MND and his fight to find a cure for the illness has been inspirational."

"I know it has inspired so many people around the country to raise a lot of money for the My Name's Doddie Foundation, which has in turn brought together his friends as well as rugby clubs and communities across Scotland and further afield."

"Doddie will have a huge legacy as he has made such progress in finding a cure for MND, and breakthroughs are already being made because of his determination."

MUCH MISSED:
Doddie Weir

SPORTS REVIEW OF 2022: A MASSIVE CRICKET YEAR

A whole new ball game for England

WHOLE NEW OUTLOOK:
Stokes has totally changed the Test team's fortunes

RARELY has English cricket experienced such a huge shift in fortunes as it did in 2022, a year that began in anger and ended in the glow of revolution.

The men's Test team has been energised in barely believable fashion by the inspired leadership of Brendon McCullum and Ben Stokes, while their white-ball side are double world champions after adding the T20 crown to the 50-over title.

In the women's game, Heather Knight's side look set for a bold new chapter of their own, with a handful of rising stars emerging and a fresh face behind the scenes in Jon Lewis.

It was impossible to envisage such a positive landscape when the annual fireworks erupted over Sydney on January 1, with the Ashes surrendered during a bruising Boxing Day Test.

England scraped a draw at the SCG, succumbed to an all-too-familiar batting collapse in Hobart and headed to the departures lounge with a humbling 4-0 defeat and the entire ecosystem of the professional game in the sniper's sights.

The blood-letting which followed was thorough, with head coach Chris

By GEOFF TRUEMAN

Silverwood and director of cricket Ashley Giles first to be ushered out of the door. Both had seen their tenures marred by the constraints and complications of Covid-19 but neither proved up to the demands of their respective offices.

Joe Root clung on to the Test captaincy for one more tour of the West Indies, extending his record five-year reign to 64 games but failing to add anything to his legacy other than a final grim chapter in Grenada.

All-rounder

By then moves were well under way to entice Rob Key away from the comfort of the television studios and into Giles' old seat. The former Kent captain left his playing career with unfinished business on the international stage and set about his second chance with gusto.

Plain speaking, instinctive, dressed for the clubhouse rather than the boardroom and mercifully free of management speak, he proved the perfect frontman for a top-toe refit of the England project.

In choosing Stokes as Root's replacement he hardly had to stretch the limits of his imagination – the all-rounder was manifestly the only sensible option – but pairing him with Kiwi maverick McCullum was a masterstroke. So too was Key's decision to split the coaching role into two specialist positions, with Matthew Mott a neat choice in the white-ball set-up.

Between them, Stokes and McCullum reimaged the limits of the grand old format, emboldened and empowered the dressing room and set about delivering the most entertaining summer of Test cricket since 2005. Having inherited a side with one win in their last 17 attempts, they claimed seven out of eight in increasingly audacious fashion against high-class opponents New Zealand, India and South Africa.

Chasing down huge fourth-innings totals became a party trick, including a record 378 against India at Edgbaston, and Jonny Bairstow waltzed into career-best form with four stunning centuries in the space of five innings.

The unfamiliar environs of Pakistan should have represented a tough examination of the new philosophy, but really bold performances in Rawalpindi and Multan merely pushed the envelope even further.

Just weeks earlier England's limited-overs unit had raised the T20 World Cup aloft, forging happier memories on Australian soil as they returned to the scene of their new year nadir.

The blueprint had been thrown up in the air by Eoin Morgan's retirement in June, robbing the team of its chief architect and primary pathfinder.

Promise

Jos Buttler's early days at the helm were totally underwhelming, when placed against the dramatic revamp of the Test side, but he found his footing in the cut-and-thrust of tournament cricket.

By the time he saw off Pakistan at a packed MCG showpiece, Buttler had confirmed his status as England's greatest white-ball cricketer and player-of-the-tournament Sam Curran had cashed in his youthful promise in full.

In the women's arena, a runners-up finish in the ODI World Cup was as close as they came to undoing Australian dominance in April.

Nat Sciver's magnificent 148 not out went down as an instant classic in the genre of losing causes and the all-rounder also carried the fight as England bowled out in the semi-finals of cricket's return to the Commonwealth Games in Birmingham.

Sciver's subsequent mental health break offered a reminder to the authorities about the pastoral care that must come with the rapid expansion of the women's calendar.

While outgoing coach Lisa Keightley was unable to provide instant gratification, she may well have paved the way for future success via the introduction of vibrant young talent such as Alice Capsey, Freya Kemp, Lauren Bell and the bubbly Issy Wong.

The quartet could form the backbone of the team in future years but will also be thrust to the fore in 2023, when bigger stadiums, bigger crowds and better scheduling place their Ashes series as an equal partner to the men's edition at the height of summer.

With Australia in town it should be another big year for cricket in England and Wales and, after a rollercoaster 12 months, the foundations appear strong.

WORLD CHAMPS:
England's T20 side

LIONESSES THE EURO HEROES

AN historic triumph during the summer ensured it was a year to remember for England's Lionesses – but the men's team were unable to make it a double as 2022 drew to a close.

Expectation on the women's side was considerable entering July's home European Championship, with the side having been in impressive, unbeaten form since boss Sarina Wiegman, a champion at the previous edition with her native Netherlands, had taken charge the previous September.

They went on to deliver in sensational style, clinching their first ever major trophy, and the first for a senior England team since the men's 1966 World Cup success, after Chloe Kelly's winner secured a 2-1 victory over Germany at Wembley.

Their surge to the final included an 8-0 group-stage thrashing of Norway, coming from behind to beat Spain 2-1 in a dramatic quarter-final thanks to Georgia Stanway's stunning extra-time strike, and thumping Sweden 4-0 in the semis, with Alessia Russo scoring a back-heeled effort.

It was a journey that captivated the nation – the final had an attendance of 87,192, and a peak BBC One audience of 17.4million – as the popularity of English women's football reached new heights and the likes of Kelly and Golden Boot winner and player of the tournament Beth Mead became household names.

Victory

Gareth Southgate's men looked to add to that success at a winter World Cup in Qatar that had been plagued by controversy, with issues including the treatment of migrant workers and LGBTQ+ rights highlighted.

The team were on a six-match winless run, had lost 4-0 at home to Hungary in June and suffered Nations League relegation in September, but Southgate's side, having reached the Euro 2020 final the previous year, believed they could go all the way.

Things started well with a 6-2 victory against Iran, and with a 0-0 draw against the United States followed by 3-0 wins over Wales and, in the last 16, Senegal, and players like 19-year-old Jude Bellingham shining, England headed into the quarter-finals looking like genuine contenders. But a clash with defending champions France proved the end of the road as they were beaten 2-1, captain Harry Kane equalising with a penalty that saw him become his country's joint-highest scorer, then missing the chance to level again with another spot-kick late on, sending it over the bar.

At both tournaments England were joined in their group by another home nation that exited at that stage. Wales opened their first World Cup campaign in 64 years with a 1-1 draw with the USA before losing to Iran 2-0 and then to England.

Northern Ireland registered their first tournament goal at the Women's Euros, scored by Julie Nelson, but were unable to claim a point, beaten 4-1 by Norway, 2-0 by Austria and 5-0 by the hosts.

On the club scene, Pep Guardiola's Manchester City claimed the Premier League title for a fourth time in five years, finishing a point ahead of a Liverpool outfit who had been in the hunt for a quadruple.

Having beaten Chelsea in the FA Cup and Carabao Cup finals, Jurgen Klopp's Reds had to settle for runners-up finishes in the league and Champions League, losing 1-0 to Real Madrid.

A turbulent year for Chelsea, who finished third, saw them go through a change of ownership, with American tycoon Todd Boehly buying the club from Roman Abramovich in May, in the wake of Russia's invasion of Ukraine, and then management as Thomas Tuchel was sacked in September and replaced by Graham Potter.

Sacking

There was also big change at Manchester United following their sixth-placed finish, with Erik ten Hag brought in as boss over the summer after Ralf Rangnick's interim spell, and the club in November parting ways with Cristiano Ronaldo by mutual agreement, shortly after the Portugal star had fiercely criticised them in a TV interview.

Antonio Conte's Spurs secured the other Champions League berth at the end of 2021-22, while the opening months of this season have seen Mikel Arteta's Arsenal lead the Premier League table, Eddie Howe's Newcastle up in the top four, and summer signing Erling Haaland make a scintillating start to life at Manchester City, scoring 23 goals in 18 appearances in all competitions.

In Scotland, Ange Postecoglou oversaw Celtic reclaiming the league title from Rangers, who reached the Europa League final under Giovanni van Bronckhorst, losing on penalties to Eintracht Frankfurt, before sacking the Dutchman last month and naming Michael Beale his successor.

WE RECOUNT ALL THE UPS AND DOWNS

SPORTING HIGHS AND LOWS 2022

It's been a massive year all over the world

IT HAS been another astonishing year of sporting drama, featuring triumphs for England's women footballers and the men's cricketers, a dramatic schism in men's professional golf and Novak Djokovic being deported from Australia.

Here, Midweek Sport looks back on five of the best and worst sporting moments of 2022.

BEST MOMENTS

LIONESSES WIN EUROS

England's Euro 2022 dream became reality after Chloe Kelly's extra-time finish saw the Lionesses beat Germany 2-1 and secure the first major trophy in their history in front of a record-breaking crowd at Wembley. Kelly prodded past Merle Frohms in the 110th minute to restore the hosts' lead after fellow substitute Ella Toone's wonderful lobbed opener just after the hour mark.

Eight-time champions Germany equalised with 11 minutes of normal time remaining through Lina Magull and the game looked on course for a penalty shoot-out until Kelly secured a first major trophy for a senior England side since the men's 1966 World Cup triumph over West Germany.

ENGLAND WIN T20 WORLD CUP

Ben Stokes once again delivered under pressure as England were crowned T20 World Cup champions with a nail-biting five-wicket win over Pakistan at the MCG. On a bowler-friendly pitch, Stokes anchored a chase of 138 with an over to spare with 52 not out from 49 balls as England became the first men's side to hold ODI and T20 World Cups simultaneously. Stokes banished memories of the 2016 final against the West Indies – when he was clattered for four successive sixes in the final over – retaining his composure despite the tricky surface to steer England home. Sam Curran had earlier taken three for 12 and there were two wickets apiece for Adil Rashid and Chris Jordan to restrict Pakistan to 137 for eight.

WINTER OLYMPICS CURLING GOLD AND SILVER

A day after Great Britain's men had to settle for silver, Eve Muirhead led the women's team to Olympic gold in Beijing. Twenty years after Rhona Martin slid her final stone down in Salt Lake City, Muirhead and team-mates Vicky Wright, Jennifer Dodds, Hailey Duff and alternate Mili Smith swept to an emphatic 10-3 win over Japan.

A pair of positive Covid tests prior to the final qualifiers almost derailed preparations, and their stuttering progress through the round-robin phase left them on the brink of elimination. But three days after they were forced to rely on two other results and a 10cm advantage in the pre-match draw shot challenge simply to stay in the tournament, Muirhead led her team to glory.

MATT FITZPATRICK WINS US OPEN

A month after narrowly missing out on a play-off for the US PGA Championship, Matt Fitzpatrick made certain of his maiden major title and a historic double in the 122nd US Open at Brookline. Fitzpatrick carded a closing 68 to finish a shot ahead of Will Zalatoris and Scottie Scheffler, joining 18-time major winner Jack Nicklaus as the only players to win the US Amateur and US Open on the same course. Nicklaus did so at Pebble Beach in 1961 and 1972, while Fitzpatrick won the US Amateur at Brookline in 2013, the same year Justin Rose became the last Englishman to win the US Open at Merion.

RONNIE O'SULLIVAN WINS SEVENTH

WORLD SNOOKER TITLE

An emotional Ronnie O'Sullivan shrugged off a stirring fightback from Judd Trump to claim a record-equalling seventh World Snooker title at the Crucible. O'Sullivan had seen a seven-frame overnight lead reduced to three by Trump in the afternoon session before recovering to win 18-13. O'Sullivan shared a lingering embrace lasting more than a minute with Trump after getting over the line with a break of 83, before also greeting his children who ran into the arena to share his moment. With victory the 46-year-old matched Stephen Hendry's modern day record and surpassed Ray Reardon to become the oldest world champion in history.

WORST MOMENTS

DJOKOVIC DEPORTED

The year began with an extraordinary story in Melbourne, where Novak Djokovic arrived to begin his bid for a 10th Australian Open title only to end up being deported from the country. Djokovic believed he had the correct paperwork to enter the country despite not having been vaccinated against Covid-19, but was detained at the airport and taken to an immigration hotel. Immigration minister Alex Hawke cancelled Djokovic's visa on the notion that the Serbian's presence in the country could stoke anti-vaccination sentiment, making him a danger to public health, as well as the potential for civil unrest. Djokovic took his case to the Federal Court of Australia but failed to get the decision overturned.

KAMILA VALIEVA SAGA

The Winter Olympics were overshadowed by the saga surrounding 15-year-old skater Kamila Valieva, who had been the focus of extraordinary attention since her positive drugs test was revealed the day after she helped Russia win the team event.

Her automatic provisional suspension was lifted by the Russian Anti-Doping Agency, whose decision was effectively upheld by CAS despite an appeal led by the International Testing Agency. Nine days after being notified of the failed test, Valieva fell twice and made a series of errors in the women's free skate to fall from first place to fourth. That at least meant the medal ceremony could take place, the International Olympic Committee having previously said it would be delayed pending the result of the investigation into Valieva's positive test should she finish in the top three.

LIV GOLF CREATES HUGE SCHISM IN MEN'S GOLF

LIV Golf only staged its first event in June, but the Saudi-funded breakaway instantly caused an unprecedented schism in the men's professional game. Players competing in the inaugural event were instantly banned by the PGA Tour and it was not long before lawsuits began flying, with Ian Poulter, Adrian Otaegui and Justin Harding getting their suspensions from the DP World Tour put on hold to play in the Scottish Open.

A week later Cameron Smith won the Open and reacted angrily in his winner's press conference to being asked about a possible move to LIV, only to duly join the following month. Henrik Stenson also jumped ship and was stripped of the Ryder Cup captaincy, while Rory McIlroy and Tiger Woods have called for LIV CEO Greg Norman to step down and for lawsuits to be dropped in order to negotiate some sort of settlement.

ARMBANDS ROW AT WORLD CUP

The early stages of the World Cup in Qatar were dominated by off-field issues, with a last-minute ban on alcohol sales at stadiums and seven European nations, including England and Wales, abandoning plans to wear a rainbow-coloured armband as part of an anti-discrimination campaign in Qatar after FIFA threatened them with sporting sanctions.

FA chief executive Mark Bullingham said the threatened disciplinary action was "unlimited" and that five FIFA officials had given the England camp just 10 minutes' notice of the possible sanctions ahead of their opening group game against Iran.

ICE QUEENS: the victorious GB Olympic curlers

CHAMPIONS LEAGUE FINAL ALMOST RESULTS IN TRAGEDY

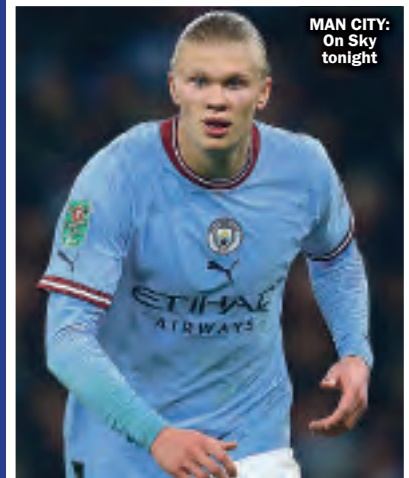

Losing to Real Madrid for the second time in five years was hugely disappointing for Liverpool fans, but a genuine tragedy almost occurred as fans attempted to get into the Stade de France.

Supporters were directed through an underpass in which police had parked vans to restrict the flow further and with local youths climbing the fence to gain entry, a decision was taken to temporarily close entry gates before riot police were deployed to pepper spray and tear gas fans.

UEFA blamed the delay on late arrival of fans and thousands of fake tickets, claims it later retracted. An independent inquiry later found Liverpool supporters were subjected to treatment that "constituted criminal assault".

REDS KOP £37m GAK

PSV forward that could rise to £44m if certain targets are met.

That seems a bargain after the Netherlands attacker starred at the World Cup, scoring three goals in Qatar.

"PSV and Liverpool have reached an agreement on the proposed transfer of Cody Gakpo," an official club statement read.

"The 23-year-old attacker will leave for England imminently where he will be subjected to the necessary formalities ahead of the completion of the transfer."

Gakpo can sign for the Reds as soon as the transfer window opens at the Sadio Mane had all but signed at Old Trafford when Louis Van Gaal was in charge only for a last-minute switch to Anfield.
